WARSHIPS RESUME JAPAN BOMBARDMENT

Meandering Along the Main Stem

By WASH FAYETTE

I couldn't help but feel a little more proud of the American Legion during last week's Fair here every time I saw one of the Paul H. Hughes Post's members of the Auxiliary State Highway Patrol directing traffic.

That was no easy job. And, those Legionnaires were not trained physically for it. But, with the spirit that has carried their country successfully through two wars and is carrying it through another right now, kept them there at it... and what a swell job they did.

It wasn't money that made those men stand out in the blazing sun or dodge cars at night. It was a sense of duty and practical co-operative helpfulness. They came from all walks of life and could have paid the regular wage out of their own pockets without missing it.

Those men, in time of a national emergency when it was not beyond a possibility that the country might be subjected to enemy air attacks, offered their services to their country again, this time as auxiliary highway patrolmen. They were given a rigid specialized course of training by the State Highway Patrol. When the time came when they were needed, they responded just as they did in the first World War and just as their sons in the second World War will do.

Their names all have been printed in the Record-Herald. Look them up and tell them you appreciate their spirit and service. That's all the compensation they'll get... they don't ask even that... just a chance to serve. That's America... that's the American Legion.

There are a great many arguments for a community hospital here, and I believe three of these arguments took place within a period of 30 hours, over the weekend.

One was the birth of a baby in an ambulance while enroute to a Columbus hospital. That is the third baby born in an ambulance while the Fayette County mother was being taken to a hospital 40 miles away, during the past year or two.

Another was the emergency case when a man was critically injured in an airplane crash.

The third was the traffic crash on the Greenfield road Sunday night, when great difficulty was experienced in obtaining a physician to give even first aid.

It was necessary to take two of the victims to a Columbus hospital, already overcrowded, when they should have been receiving surgical and medical attention here.

During the same time three persons were moved to or from hospitals outside of Washington C. H.

ELLIOTT ROOSEVELT TO RETIRE AUG. 15

Army Says Request Is Made Before Publicity

WASHINGTON, July 31—(AP)—Brig. Gen. Elliott Roosevelt will return to civilian life August 15. His release from the army air forces was arranged, however, before the recent headline flurry that led to a congressional inquiry into reported loans made to the late president's second son.

It followed Roosevelt's own request for retirement, completion of two assignments growing of his European war experiences and the fact, the army said, "there was no requirement for his services in the Pacific which could not be filled by another available and qualified officer."

The statement said Roosevelt asked for his release on May 11 "if there was no need for his services in the Pacific."

TRAIN-TRUCK CRASH CLAIMS LIFE OF ONE

WELLINGTON, July 31—(AP)—Benjamin Echbacher, 55, of Utica, O., was killed yesterday when a truck owned by a Steubenville drilling contractor was hit by a Big Four train at a Main Street crossing. Another passenger of the truck, E. E. Blackburn of Steubenville, was injured slightly.

New Storm Swirls Over Peace Charter

Presidential Appointment of Security Council Delegate Without Congress-defined Authority Is Center Of Controversy

WASHINGTON, July 31—(AP)—Senatorial unity on the United Nations Charter broke wide open today over a proposal that President Truman appoint a Security Council delegate without letting Congress define his authority.

Chairman Connally (D-Tex.) of the Foreign Relations Committee stirred the storm with an announcement he had asked the State Department to determine if any legislation is needed to cover the appointment of Edward R. Stettinius, Jr., to the post.

The reaction to Connally's view that there is no need for a bill—to which might be attached a limitation on authority to vote for the use of American troops—was vigorous.

Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich.), who served with Connally as delegate to the San Francisco Conference, said today:

"The reaction to Connally's view that there is no need for a bill—to which might be attached a limitation on authority to vote for the use of American troops—was vigorous."

JOB REINSTATEMENT IN 30 DAYS ORDERED

CHICAGO, July 31—(AP)—War Department officials of the fifth, sixth and seventh service commands, covering the middle west, were told yesterday former War Department employees now in the armed services must be reinstated in their old jobs within 30 days after application.

Wilford M. Aiken, assistant director of civilian personnel in the office of the secretary of war made this declaration at a reemployment conference for the three commands. He added about 300,000 War Department employees went into the armed services and the merchant marine.

Homeless are Problem in Austria

Thousands of Refugees Handicap Efforts of Army to Bring Order Out of Chaos

By LYNN HEINZERLING
ENNS, Austria, July 31—(AP)—A mass of unhappy, restless refugees—nearly 400,000 in the American zone alone—stand athwart Allied and Austrian hopes to build a free, independent democracy out of the political chaos in Austria.

Allied occupation authorities cannot even make a start toward furnishing a reasonable policy concerning the prime problems of food and fuel until the question of displaced persons is settled. Diets already are dangerously thin and coal is almost non-existent. Extreme hardship seems unavoidable this winter.

There are more than 125,000 displaced Germans in the American occupied provinces of Salzburg and upper Austria alone, and occupation authorities in What Should Be Mikado's Fate?

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
WASHINGTON, July 31—(AP)—Allied councils are divided sharply over the treatment to be accorded Emperor Hirohito of Japan.

The difference to views, which spreads among groups within the United States government as well as among other governments, is understood here to have been the basic reason why the Potsdam ultimatum to Japan omitted all reference to Hirohito, or to the monarchy as an institution.

The way still is open for the Japanese to try to save their emperor as the pinnacle of their government. However, American officials say they are hurting their chances by delaying inevitable capitulation.

Although Premier Suzuki's rejection of the Potsdam demand is described here as something of a poker move in the hope of winning higher stakes, there is at the moment a lessening hope of any immediate surrender.

There are those, however, who cite first, the terrific beating the Japanese are taking and second, the fact there are presumed to be within Japan potential leaders who really would like to end (Please Turn to Page Three)

WAR EXPANSION PACED BY OHIO

More New Plants Are Built Than in Any Other State

CLEVELAND, July 31—(AP)—More manufacturing plants and facilities were built in Ohio during the war than in any other state in the union, the War Production Board disclosed today.

The Buckeye state, which in 1939 ranked fourth in terms of productive capacity, now stands third as the result of its 1,293 new industrial units.

The WPB said $1,677,399,000 was spent on the state's wartime industrial expansion, $1,201,500,000 by the government and $475,000,000 by private capital.

The greatest expansion occurred in the greater Cleveland area where $405,236,000 was spent from June, 1940 to May 1944, the period covered by the WPB survey. Only Detroit, Chicago and Los Angeles topped this figure.

Second in the state was Hamilton County (Cincinnati) where $222,628,000 was expended, Montgomery County (Dayton) was third with $113,808,000, Summit County (Akron) fourth with $110,341,000, Lucas County (Toledo) fifth with $97,306,000 and (Please Turn to Page Two)

INDUSTRIAL COMBINE IS CHARGED BY FTC

Non-Member Mills Bought Out of Competition

WASHINGTON, July 31—(AP)—The Federal Trade Commission has announced it has issued a complaint charging the National Paperboard Association, Chicago, with an unlawful combination eliminating price competition and restricting production.

The complaint named as respondents 12 American manufacturers, including Mead Corporation of Chillicothe; and Hinde and Dauch Paper Company of Sandusky, together with Frederick G. Becker, Inc., of Chicago. Becker is executive manager of the association.

"In support of their program for controlling the industry the respondents, the complaint alleges, formulated and put into effect what is known as the 'Becker Plan,' whereby members of the association and non-member manufacturers subscribed to a fund to individually buy up or lease existing paperboard mills and machinery," the FTC stated.

CHURCHILL MOVES FROM DOWNING ST.

LONDON, July 31—(AP)—Winston Churchill today moved out of No. 10 Downing Street, residence of British prime ministers, after five years of occupation.

Buckingham Palace announced last night Churchill had declined an offer by King George VI of the Order of the Garter, which usually is conferred on prime ministers and other top leaders when they give up public life.

Elevator Girl Survives Plunge Down 80 Floors

NEW YORK, July 31—(AP)—The elevator girl who fell nearly 80 floors—about 1,000 feet—when the cables of her car in the Empire State Building were snapped by an army bomber crash Saturday was alive and smiling today at Bellevue Hospital.

She is 20-year-old Betty Lou Oliver of Fort Smith, Ark., who took a job as elevator girl in the world's largest building while she waited in New York for her sailor husband to return from overseas.

Betty Lou was alone in the car when the fog-blinded B-25 crashed into the building Saturday, and she remained fully conscious during the elevator's terrifying descent. She is suffering from burns, bruises and a possible back fracture.

"The elevator seemed to stop and shudder for a moment," she told her sister, Mrs. James Beaudette, of Chicago, at the hospital. "Then it began plummeting downward. I tried desperately to stop it. Then a flash of fire enveloped me and I raised my left arm to protect my face."

"The fire was gone in a moment and I tried again to work the controls. I picked up the telephone in the cage and tried to call the starter on the ground floor. Nothing happened. I started yelling and pounding the floor."

Laval Surrenders To Yanks After Ousted from Spain

By GEORGE TUCKER
FRANKFORT ON THE MAIN, July 31—(AP)—Ordered out of Spain after a 90-day stay, Pierre Laval flew to Linz, Austria, today and surrendered to U. S. authorities in the American zone of occupation.

His plane landed before noon, after a flight from Barcelona.

A spokesman for the United States forces said in making the announcement, that no additional details were available. The former chief of the Vichy government had left Barcelona in a German-manned Junkers 188.

It was believed his presence in the American zone would offer a tough problem in French-American relations which could be solved only by prompt delivery of Laval to French authorities.

France already has condemned Laval to death in his absence. Laval was accompanied by his wife and two German air force officers in full Luftwaffe uniform.

A Paris broadcast heard in London quoted a Madrid dispatch as saying Laval had declared last night that he would "do all in his power to avoid returning to France," where he faces trial on treason charges.

A semi-official source in Paris said today Laval, flying from Spain, was headed for "somewhere in Bavaria" to surrender himself to the American occupation forces.

Paris airfields were alerted, however, just in case the Laval plane should appear there.

Blame for Armistice Taken By Weygand

Order to Cease Operations Against U. S. and Britain in Africa Given by Petain to Adm. Darlan, Court Martial Told

PARIS, July 31—(AP)—Gen. Maxime Weygand declared today that Marshal Petain sent a secret telegram to Adm. Jean Darlan "ordering the admiral to cease operations against United States and British forces at the time of the landing in North Africa."

The general who was commander in chief of French armies when Germany crushed the republic was brought to the high court of justice under guard and in civilian dress to testify as the first defense witness in Petain's trial on charges of intelligence with the enemy and plotting against the security of France.

Weygand assumed full responsibility for the armistice. He gave one of the first detailed accounts of events leading to, and after the surrender of France.

Peta's attorneys announced they would ask for a postponement of the trial if Pierre Laval was returned to France. Laval, who was chief of government in the Vichy regime, landed in Linz, Austria, today after being ousted from Spain, where he sought refuge when Germany collapsed.

He said Darlan was "completely favorable to the Germans when Africa was invaded in the fall of 1942."

It was not clear from the general's testimony whether Darlan ever received the telegram, but it was the first time anyone had stated that Petain had any part in halting French resistance to the Allies.

Weygand was the first defense witness at the trial of Marshal Petain, accused of intelligence with the enemy and plotting against the security of France. He limped into court, bowed low to Petain, and described himself as (Please Turn to Page Six)

HOARDING CHARGED TO ARMY AND NAVY

WASHINGTON, July 31—(AP)—A former official of the War Production Board says the army and navy are hoarding electric refrigerators and holding up reconversion.

Lester R. Doidge, who stepped out a month ago from his job as chief of the consumers' durable goods branch, said yesterday the army had "plenty of refrigerators stored away here and there" but still received large allotments of new ones each quarter.

NEW INDUSTRIES HIT BY STRIKES

Showdown Near for Crosley; Rubber Plant Seized

By The Associated Press
The nation's strike total, fluctuating from a low of 34,000 to about 100,000 during July, hovered around the 40,000 mark today.

New disputes cropped up along the labor front and hundreds of workers were kept from vital war jobs. A survey disclosed at least 39 separate work stoppages across the country, affecting a variety of industries and businesses.

There was a possibility one of the biggest walkouts might be ended soon. Workers at the Crosley plant in Cincinnati, O., were to consider today a War Labor Board order directing the end of the four-day strike which has idled more than 5,000 employees and halted production of vital radio and radar equipment.

A new walkout in Chicago, some 500 workers at the Foote Brothers Gear and Machine Corporation, affected production of airplane engines. A company spokesman said the walkout resulted from what he termed a misunderstanding over the extension of work week for some employees.

Some 3,500 other strikers in the Chicago area, employees at 39 foundries, rejected for the second time a WLB back-to-work directive. They voted to continue their week-old walkout, said an official of the International Molders and Foundry Workers Union (AFL) until a signed contract is obtained from the employers.

MICHIGAN PRISON WARDEN IS FIRED

Action Result of Scandal Disclosures

LANSING, MICH., July 31—(AP)—Warden Harry H. Jackson and six other top officials of the State Prison of Southern Michigan were ordered removed from office today on charges of maladministration and moral laxity.

Rescinding an earlier decision, the State Corrections Commission dismissed the seven accused officials without waiting for a public hearing originally set by the commission for next week.

The action was taken at the request of Attorney General John R. Dethmers, who said the seven were entitled under the Michigan constitution to hearings before the state civil service commission.

Warden Jackson and his assistants had been under suspension since last week when Dethmers' voluminous and sensational reports climaxed a four-month investigation of prison affairs. The reports said "Big Shot" convicts had things their own way at the penitentiary near Jackson, were permitted to gamble within the walls, bring in liquor and women visitors and to visit nearby houses of prostitution.

Even six months ago, after it had been whittled down, the enemy heavy fleet's end was a thing to anticipate as the fiery fruit of some final ferocious battle or series of battles.

FLEET IS BACK FOR ATTACK ON AREA OF TOKYO

Civilians Incited to Suicide To Form Human Shield for Mikado in Invasion

By LEONARD MILLIMAN
By The Associated Press.

American warships bombarded Japan for the seventh time today as Allied planes were credited with taking a three-day toll of 267 Nipponese ships and 430 aircraft.

The great Allied fleet which has been preparing Japan for invasion for three weeks was apparently moving back into waters near Tokyo, lending weight to enemy reports of intensified preparations to meet assault waves on the shores of the homeland or China.

Suicide Ordered
Japan today incited its civilian volunteer forces to suicide as a human shield for the Mikado when invasion of the homeland comes, and sent Nipponese men in occupied China through strenuous training against the day of Allied landings, radio Tokyo reported.

Corpsmen must be prepared at all times to die for the emperor and to "sacrifice" themselves in the defense of the land, they were told by Home Minister Genki Abe in a nationwide broadcast monitored by the Federal Communications Commission.

The dispatch said "consultants, general, aged school principals, company presidents, messengers, parents, children and everybody else" take the training and "are determined to give their lives if need be."

SERIOUS SHORTAGE OF COAL PREDICTED

Ickes Tries To Get Miners Released from Service

WASHINGTON, July 31—(AP)—Secretary Ickes said today next winter will be the coldest of the war for Americans unless enough miners are released quickly from military service to make up a prospective deficit of 37,000,000 tons of coal.

"This would be true even if we did not send a pound of bituminous coal to Europe," Ickes told the senate war investigating committee which is looking into the possibility of getting miners discharged from the armed forces.

Ickes has recommended, however, that 6,000,000 tons of coal be shipped to liberated and neutral European countries before next Jan. 1.

"If immediate steps are not taken to increase the coal supply in the liberated nations of Europe to a point that will sustain human life next winter," he cautioned the senators, "we must expect rioting, bloodshed, and the destruction of nearly all semblance of orderly government."

WOMAN IS PUT IN ASYLUM AFTER CHILDREN SLASHED

WARREN, July 31—(AP)—Mrs. Doris Higley, 29, of Braceville, whom police said slashed the throats of her three children and then her own, has been committed to the Massillon State Hospital for the insane.

Probate Judge Sidney W. Jones ordered her removal yesterday following a hearing at which Mrs. Higley was examined by two doctors.

He was found in bed when police surrounded a Poland Ave. place where he was hiding. A 35-year-old woman companion is being held by police.

DEAN E. BURRIS RADIO OPERATOR IN NOTED UNIT

'Blue Ridge' Division Wins
Decoration for Fine Work
In Europe

Tec 4 Dean E. Burris, 704 South North Street, of Washington C. H. Ohio is radio operator in the 80th "Blue Ridge" Infantry division's 313 field artillery battalion, which recently received the coveted War Department Distinguished Unit Citation in the name of the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt. The decoration accompanying the citation is a gold framed blue ribbon, worn on the right chest, the only American decoration so worn.

The 313th field artillery battalion, then under the command of Lt. Colonel Frederick W. Ellery, Riverside, Cal., crossed the Moselle River in France September 12, 1944 over the first assault bridge to give close support to the Infantry and in four days battling against incessant German attempts to overrun its positions wrote one of the most gallant epics of American artillery annals. The battalion's official citation, dated April 10, 1945, reads in part:

"On 12 September 1944, the 313th Field Artillery Battalion crossed the Moselle River to positions in the vicinity of Bezaumont. That night and the following four days the forces that crossed the river were repeatedly attacked by tanks and infantry supported by artillery, mortars, and machine guns. These attacks were in all cases repulsed, on two occasions only after penetration of the firing positions of the 313th field artillery battalion.

"On 14 September the situation became critical. An attack by enemy infantry and tanks, supported by heavy concentrations of mortar and artillery, was directed against our lines. The attack succeeded in penetrating deep into our positions. Without hesitation and based upon sound plan, all men of the 313th field artillery battalion, including Service Battery and Headquarters personnel, except the minimum necessary to serve the pieces, were deployed as infantry.

"Making use of bazookas, machine guns, carbines, and their primary weapons, the 313th from defensive positions, repulsed the attack without the loss of material. Two enemy tanks were destroyed in this action. The 313th field artillery battalion was the only artillery unit east of the Moselle River during the period 12-16 September 1944.

"During these four days the battery positions were repeatedly subjected to small arms, machine gun, mortar and artillery fire. During the early morning hours of 16 September 1944 an attack by tanks and infantry, directed principally against the left (north) of the front lines, was repulsed by the infantry supported by the 313th field artillery battalion and other artillery with the division (from positions west of the Moselle), but only after the enemy had infiltrated to the rear of the 313th field artillery battalion and some infantry elements had been forced back across the river. The 313th field artillery battalion distinguished itself in battle by extraordinary heroism, exhibited such gallantry, determination, and esprit de corps as to set it apart and above units participating in the same engagement. The magnificent courage and devotion to duty displayed by all members of the 313th field artillery battalion are a credit and inspiration to the armed forces of the United States."

SOLDIER IS HURT IN AUTO WRECK

Auto Crashes Into Water Tank
And Road Roller

Sheriff Orland Hays was called to investigate a wreck on the CCC highway near the Robert Allamang home, 8 miles northeast of Washington C. H., shortly after 4 A. M. Tuesday, after an automobile had left the road and was wrecked against a road roller.

The car was driven by George Shoaf, Jr., of Orient, and was a DeSota coach owned by his father. Shoaf, who was injured severely but not seriously, was headed toward Mt. Sterling, and said a trailer truck passed another car and forced him from the road.

The auto first crashed into a water tank owned by Max J. Zeller, road contractor, then proceeded about 60 feet before crashing into a road roller. The car was badly damaged.

Shoaf was given attention here and later went to his home in Orient.

ing down so fast that I just had to hang onto the sides of the elevator to keep from floating."

The elevator crashed against an oil buffer in the bottom of the pit, drove the buffer cylinder through the car from bottom to top, and smashed the floor—all but about eight inches in one corner where the girl was standing.

"She was saved by a miracle," said George A. Mount, district manager of the Otis Elevator Co., who investigated the building's elevators yesterday.

Mount said all six cables to which the car was attached were snapped, and the automatic braking cable also was destroyed, permitting the car to fall without any braking system at all. The only thing which might have slowed the descent was air pressure in the shaft, he said.

Conservative Trend Noted in Cabinet Appointments
Encourages Rightists

WASHINGTON, July 31.—(P)—A tug-of-war for President Truman's legislative affections apparently is shaping up with senate left wing Democrats first to grasp the rope.

A dozen who have interested themselves in the type of legislation Mr. Truman often voted for when he sat in the senate gathered today to draft a "progressive" social and economic program they hope the chief executive will support when Congress meets in October.

The senate's right wingers also hope Mr. Truman will be with them, influenced in this view by what they regard as a conservative trend developing in his cabinet and other appointments.

Both sides apparently think the way Mr. Truman goes—if he travels away from the center where he seems to have planted himself at least temporarily—is the issue now.

Spurred by the labor party's recent victory in Great Britain, the left wingers decided now is the time to give the president a little impetus to move in their direction.

Accordingly Senators Pepper (D-Fla.), Mead (D-N.Y.), Magnuson (D-Wash.) and some others invited colleagues of like views to discuss a 10 or 12 point program dealing exclusively with social and economic problems. They won't talk about such party-dividing issues as a permanent fair employment practice committee, Pepper said.

On their proposed agenda were proposals for unemployment compensation increases, social security expansion, revision of the surplus property law, the sponsor-titled full employment bill, minimum wage increases, federal health grants, science mobilization and patents legislation.

Once their program is formed, Pepper said the group would attempt to sell it to the nation during the congressional recess.

Floyd O. Grim, a native of Fayette County, will unveil and present an oil painting, his own handiwork, when he appears as a candidate for initiation during the Eagles' anniversary celebration at their home here, Tuesday night, it was learned today from the secretary, Robert Bailey.

Howard Grimm, Mt. Sterling, who is a brother of Floyd Grimm, and also a member of the Eagles Lodge for many years, is responsible for the idea which prompted its painting by the Fayette county, he said.

The picture, which is to be a contribution to the lodge, required 80 hours of labor, it was said. After the artist is initiated in the anniversary class, he will unveil the painting.

On Wednesday night, Alfred Coe and his orchestra will provide music for the Eagles anniversary dance, starting at 9 P. M. More popularly known as the "Waltz Club," the dance is to be for Eagles only, Bailey said.

NATION'S WAR EXPANSION IS PACED BY OHIO WITH MOST NEW PLANTS BUILT

Stark County (Canton, Massillon and Alliance) sixth with $97,100,000.

Ohio expansion totaled 8.3 percent of all plants and facilities constructed in the U. S. during the four years, the WPB declared, and was largely centered in machine tools, machinery, electrical equipment and appliances, aircraft, iron and steel industries.

Trailing the Buckeye state were Pennsylvania, Michigan, Illinois, New York, California, Texas and Indiana.

Strategic and economic considerations, the WPB report said, "required the heavy concentration of these facilities in the same states and areas where similar industries had chiefly operated before the war."

George A. Moore, deputy WLB director, said not one of the 15 largest plants constructed by the government during the war was in Ohio, and commented, generally, the larger the plant the less chance for its conversion into peacetime production.

At the present time 16 members of the State Highway crews in Fayette County are assisting in detasseling hybrid corn at the farms of John Cannon and Son.

Some 10 of the workers are boys of high school age who have been painting bridges in the county under direction of the Highway Department.

The men were sent to help with the detasseling to meet an emergency, and expect to complete the work within two or three days.

Highway employees in other counties are also assisting with this important work, under direction of the state director it is indicated.

Extensive damage to factories, including a powder works, and other ground installations was reported. Additionally all types of air sweeps over Japan, China and Indo-China knocked out 72 enemy locomotives at least temporarily.

All Japanese over 14 in occupied China were reported undergoing hurried but realistic military training "in which fire belches forth and blood is drawn" in preparation for "the enemy's coastal landing plan." The Japanese expect this blow to fall north of Shanghai.

The civilian volunteer corps in the homeland was told by Home Minister Genki Abe to use suicide tactics to meet invading forces. "The sacred soil" of Japan, he said, "must not be desecrated by foreign invaders."

One task of the corps is to increase Nippon's food supply. Washington authorities said Japan is very short of food but is not facing starvation.

Field dispatches told of well-fed Japanese troops bitterly resisting Allied mop up forces in the Solomons and the Philippines.

The Nipponese garrison on Bougainville Island in the Solomons was reported reinforced by garrisons from the Shortland Islands. Half of Bougainville is held by the Australians who estimated 85,000 enemy troops are still alive in the Solomons. In eight months Aussies have killed 13,377 Japanese and captured 337 on Bougainville and New Guinea while suffering 3,200 casualties of their own.

Other Australian forces were reported to have routed Japanese from the Balikpapan area of Borneo with great losses.

Cruel, wily Japanese Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita escaped two weeks ago one of the heaviest artillery and aerial assaults the 8th Infantry Division ever launched, but the Yanks today were within six miles of his last known hide-out.

Yamashita's headquarters are known to have been at Hungduan recently. Yesterday, elements of this division captured bloody Ifugao Ridge after two weeks in which they assaulted the hill with 6,000 gallons of jellied gasoline; 5,000,000 rounds of .50 caliber air strafing; 4,000 rounds from aerial cannon, and 11,000 rounds of mortar shells.

Hungduan is only about six miles from the ridge and about seven miles northwest of Kiangnan. It is accessible only by a narrow, winding trail along which elements of Maj. Gen. Charles E. Hurd's division are making slow progress.

HIGHWAY CREWS DETASSEL CORN

Hybrid Seed Corn Emergency
Met in County

At the present time 16 members of the State Highway crews in Fayette County are assisting in detasseling hybrid corn at the farms of John Cannon and Son.

Some 10 of the workers are boys of high school age who have been painting bridges in the county under direction of the Highway Department.

The men were sent to help with the detasseling to meet an emergency, and expect to complete the work within two or three days.

Highway employees in other counties are also assisting with this important work, under direction of the state director it is indicated.

THE WAR TODAY

BEWITT MACKENZIE

Those psychiatrists who long ago took the position that Hitler and his leaders were paranoid, or had a tendency towards paranoia, would seem to be getting support for this theory from the American internment camp at Mondorf, Luxembourg, where some of the Fuehrer's chief henchmen are held.

Th Nazi leaders in that camp, and others who have been accounted for elsewhere, have in most cases displayed mental abnormality, though this column doesn't profess to label the type of abnormality. That's highly interesting, for the experts tell us that paranoics flock together. Our gangster gunmen are an example.

One of the characteristics of the paranoic is an exaggerated imagination. He thinks he is a superman; he is persecuted; he's right and everybody is against him. In the final stages of his disease, they tell us, he may become dangerous—a killer, from his viewpoint he isn't a criminal, but an inspired being who is righting the world.

Hitler exhibited these characteristics. If you trace his history back to the last war you find him suffering temporary blindness from hysteria. In 1938 when I followed him about in the Chamberlain Conferences at Berchtesgaden, Godesberg and Munich, and later into Sudetenland, he certainly was displaying strange complexes.

Now far be it from your columnist to try to give an expert appraisal of Hitler's mental condition during his evil dictatorship. We know that, paranoic or not, he was one of the most powerful leaders of history. Still, the methods employed by this self-ordained divinity—wholesale massacres, attempts to exterminate races, enslavement of millions—all seem to fit the theory of paranoic tendencies rather snugly.

By the way, we may not be rid of this devil yet. Col. General Gorbato, Russian chairman of the Allied Kommandantur for Berlin, says there's no definite proof that Hitler is dead. He may be in hiding.

Well, so much for the master, and now for the Nazi captains. Little Joe Goebbels, Hitler's minister of propaganda, who presumably committed suicide during the siege of Berlin, was abnormal. He was an expert in lying and trickery. Rudolf Hess, who mysteriously flew to England in 1941 and was imprisoned, is reported by his wife in Germany to have undergone certain "psycho-physical" changes. In short, his screw-ball mentality finally has jelled.

Oversize Hermann Goering, Hitler's crown prince, who has a long record of abnormality, is in a bad way in the internment camp. He is a dope addict, and since his arrest he has been cringing in fear of death. He even cracked up the other night because of thunder.

Robert Ley, once head of all German labor, has gone to pieces, as has Julius Streicher who perhaps holds first place in history as a persecutor of the Jews. Dr. Hans Frank, the bloody minded Nazi overlord of Poland, is suffering from hysteria much of the time.

So the story goes. Even some of the Prussian general staff are showing signs of mental peculiarities, and go into hysterics over slight things. The sum and substance of all this is that the Hitler regime, and some of the military command, was comprised of such abnormal minds that one would have to search far to find proofs to controvert the psychiatrists' claim that the Nazi leaders had paranoic tendencies.

Anyway, mental abnormality was responsible for one of the most barbaric wars of history. The Kaiser waged a war of aggression, but he didn't descend to wholesale massacres and enslavement.

The moral? That seems clear enough—to put all the Hitlerite leaders permanently out of circulation in the forthcoming trials.

TABLES TURNED ON GERMANS BY SUFFERING JEWS

Question Is: Should They Oust Ex-Nazis and Hold Holy Land Property

By ERIC GOTTGRETRU

JERUSALEM (AP)—That the Jews were thrown out of Germany is a fact; whether the Germans should be thrown out of Palestine is a hot question today.

The Palestine government has been conferring with the British on the problems of readmitting the Germans to their six settlements in Palestine and giving them back their property holdings, which were considerable.

There are many proposals. Some say the property should be sold for the benefit of Jewish pogrom orphans and the victims of Europe's infamous concentration camps. Others propose Palestine Jewry appropriate this property as compensation for all the possessions Hitler's followers wrenched from Europe's Jews, a number of whom are finding it hard sledding in Palestine today. A Jewish ex-soldiers' league put forward the idea that the German property be given to Palestine soldiers returning home.

The German villages contained four or five thousand Germans before the war. Children in the streets spoke the pure Wuertemberg dialect of their grandfathers, who were Christians come to Palestine out of religious motives. One of their villages, high in Galilee, is still named Bethlehem in indifference to the real Bethlehem south of Jerusalem. One Christian Hoffmann, a Wuertemberg theologian, investigated Palestine in 1858 and ten years later returned, with followers, to open the Holy Land to German spiritual expression.

These settlements—and all German property in Palestine—the Germans regarded in the Nazi policy light of "German soil overseas." The sale of German property was forbidden by Hitler, and most of Palestine's Germans became ardent Nazis.

"German Palestine" provided scholars for the Wehrmacht, experts on the Jewish problem and scholars for the Reich learned in the Hebrew language.

GUERRILLA EDITOR RETURNS TO FIGHT

SAN FRANCISCO — A 29-year-old Filipino who suffered Japanese torture and risked his life to spread the news of Gen. MacArthur's advance toward the Philippines now is getting ready to go home to carry on the fight for "a square deal for our people."

He is Manuel Manahan and has been here from the outset of the world security conference, reporting for a pool of some 18 newspapers now operating on a very limited scale in the liberated parts of the islands.

A tall, good looking youth, Manahan did espionage work during the Japanese invasion and, after Bataan fell, he helped publish the Liberator, a small monthly newspaper that told the story of America's war effort and exposed Filipino collaborators.

The Japanese arrested him, his father and five evacuees whom he used regularly behind the enemy lines to spy on Japanese troop and supply movements.

The Japanese slapped his face with a 45 revolver, cracked his skull, broke his arm, and threw acid on him in a vain attempt to make him "squeal" on other members of his group. After seven months' imprisonment in Fort Santiago, he was released. He shrank in weight from 187 to 101 pounds.

Shortly afterwards, Manahan met a guerrilla leader, Capt. Ben-

WILL WE BOMB HIROHITO?

Destruction of Imperial Palace May End Jap Myth

THE IMPERIAL PALACE—Behind its stone facade dwells the Mikado. Few Japs ever get so close a view.

By HENRY C. NICHOLAS
Central Press Correspondent

WASHINGTON—The state and war departments are giving consideration to the withdrawal of the immunity from bombing which the Imperial palace of Hirohito has enjoyed since the outbreak of war with Japan.

If this immunity is withdrawn it will represent a major decision changing the policy which the government had intended to pursue, during the remaining days of the war with Japan and in the peace which will follow.

When Gen. James Doolittle made his historic raid on Tokyo the pilots were warned not to fly over the Imperial palace, and that under no conditions should a bomb be allowed to drop on these sacred Japanese grounds. Similar orders have been given the crews of every Superfortress which has bombed Japan.

This decision was based partly on the belief we might be able to use the prestige of Emperor Hirohito in establishing a constitutional monarchy in Japan following the war.

It was also felt that the bombing of the Imperial palace would not serve any military purpose, while it might galvanize the Japanese into a religious fervor which would vastly strengthen home morale and prolong the war.

But with increasing knowledge of the strange Japanese psychology centered around the altar of emperor worship, an increasing number of high officials are beginning to question the wisdom of this decision.

There is a growing conviction that the war will be shortened and a sounder peace established, if the Imperial palace of Hirohito is bombed and completely destroyed.

These advisors of the state and war departments are impressed, to mention just one example, by the quite amazing transformation which has occurred among some of our Japanese prisoners.

The sacred duty has been instilled in the Japanese soldier, as a part of his emperor worship, that he commit suicide before surrendering to the enemy. And most of them willingly do just that.

Japs Who Want to Live

But those Japanese who have been captured alive on the battlefield before they could kill themselves, after remaining in a prison camp for some weeks and seeing the falsity of what they had been told about the savage cruelty of American soldiers, appear to want to continue to live as much as any civilized person. Not one of them has committed suicide.

"We can cure that Japanese superstition of dying for the emperor within a month," says one Army officer.

We are still far from understanding the strange Japanese mind, but advisors to the state department feel we now have a much clearer conception than we did at the outbreak of the war.

Those in favor of the bombing of the Imperial palace point out that the divinity theory of the Japanese emperor is not as ancient or as deeply rooted in the Japanese people as many have thought—that emperor worship was adopted only about 70 years ago and then solely as the result of political expediency.

The conviction seems to be growing in Washington that, instead of trying to use the weak Hirohito to reform and control Japan, a sounder peace could be established if the Japanese were purged of their notions about the divine origin of the emperor. And how could this superstition be more completely destroyed than through the bombing of the Imperial palace?

One who advises such action is K. K. Kawakakami, a former Washington correspondent for a Tokyo newspaper and who since Pearl Harbor has cooperated in certain fields of our war effort.

Kawakakami says that Japan is not lacking in historians, scholars and thinkers who deplore the efforts to shroud the Imperial house in the myth of divinity, thus frustrating the honest study of history and making impossible the healthy growth of constitutional government.

"They deplore," says Kawakakami, "the trumped-up divinity of the emperor. It is even possible that the bombing of the Imperial palace will hasten the end of Japanese resistance."

"If his palace were bombed Hirohito would not have the nerve to issue fiery rescripts exhorting the nation to fight to the last man. That is not the way a weak man would react to such a situation."

"More likely, Hirohito would speak out with a courage of desperation and tell his generals and admirals that the war must cease, and at once. And the militarists knowing that the war has long since been lost, might welcome this opportunity to throw up the sponge and pass the buck to the throne."

the war.

A check of officials here shows the situation at the moment to be this:

1. The British are reported following the line the Japanese emperor should be preserved—certainly the institution of monarchy in Japan—primarily as a means of preventing chaos and possibly eventual dictatorship in the war-wrecked country.

2. At the other extreme, the Peoples' Political Council of China has recommended to the Chinese government that Hirohito be branded as a war criminal.

3. The United States is following a middle of the road, "wait and see" policy. The theory is if the Japanese people really want Hirohito they probably should have a chance to demonstrate the fact. If it turns out they do not want him then he should not, in the American view, be imposed upon them.

Indications are, however, there is no unanimity among American officials on the Hirohito policy. Some talk privately of disposing of the emperor once he is in Allied hands. Others contend he should be used by the Allies primarily as a bargaining point.

4. The situation has been complicated by Australian rejection of the entire Potsdam ultimatum as too lenient. The official view here is while it did promise them freedom of government, religion and so on, it actually laid down the framework of a "hard" peace.

the necessary facilities, already have two counts against them, they say, in starting their experiment in establishing a democracy.

First, they believe, the non-fraternization rule in Austria was a serious mistake. It changed about American occupation and the prospects of a free democracy, into "chilly disbelievers."

Second, some of the officers say they doubt that American, Russian, French and British occupation authorities—all active in this country—can agree on the formation of a suitable government.

Political parties are becoming active but occupation officials contend that no outstanding leaders have appeared, and they point out that the Russian-sponsored Renner government in Vienna still is unrecognized by the western Allies.

Bright spots in the American area are the reopening of some of the Austrian courts, restoration of water service in the city of Salzburg and opening of rehearsals for the historic Salzburg music festivals.

The B. & O. Railroad has a crew of men busy repairing street crossings in the city, and some of them have already been given attention.

For sometime the crossings had been in bad shape on some of the streets, notably North North Street and Millikan Avenue, just east of the Union Station.

The work was started on some of the other crossings, and these two that were particularly bad are to be given attention while the crew is here for general repair of the crossings.

Does Japan Mean It?

The first report from Japan, after the reception of the ultimatum from the Big Three suggesting that the Japanese end the war by speedy surrender, indicated that they "would choose utter destruction rather than yield to the Potsdam ultimatum."

But other suggestions come dribbling in that Japan, under cover of her bold words, is really preparing her people for giving up. It's easy enough to tell the world you'll die rather than surrender. It is not so easy in reality to commit a populace to destruction under the might of a military force which they have already begun to understand.

If the Japanese are determined to fight to the end, they will get what they ask for. The Allies are pouring in men and war material at a rate undreamed of in previous wars, unseen before even in this conflict. The choice is that of the Japanese cabinet. They can have, for their country, either life and a chance or death and complete destruction. Every American will hope and pray that they choose surrender. But if they want invasion, God pity them! They will get it.

British Policy

It goes without saying that there will be a rattling of dry bones in Downing Street as a labor cabinet takes over in England. Many Americans are likely to view it definitely as a "socialist" cabinet. There has been a rather strong trend in that direction for some time.

The new government frankly proposes to consolidate transportation, including the railroads and all commercial carriers, internal or coastal. The coal mines apparently are to be nationalized. There will be more places for women.

Its general policy may be summed up in Clement Attlee's demand for a new world order including "security that will banish war forever," and "widespread prosperity for the people of all nations." It is a large order, but there is no harm in aiming high. "We are embarking," he says, "on a great adventure." America, herself doing a little more adventuring than usual, will watch the procedure with much interest.

As for "socialism," some of its doctrines and practices are evidently making headway in both Britain and the United States. If leadership does not become too headstrong and demand unprecedented changes, there may be no cause for alarm. This is a time, however, for all straight-thinking Americans to be on guard. Changes sought may jeopardize real liberty.

Hints on Etiquette

Wedding gifts should always be answered by hand-written notes of thanks. An engraved card is a cold response for one who has shopped thoughtfully for the right gift for you.

Today's Horoscope

Yours is a prudent, intuitive and idealistic nature. You have many good ideas. Your judgment is sound and others often seek your counsel. You have refined tastes, and your marriage will be a happy one if you choose your mate with care and take your time about it. Consider today if you have neglected your old friends, or those who are a distance away. The aspects favor your communicating with them and re-establishing friendship on the basis of mutual give-and-take, with all of its delights.

Atlantic Charter, if once really brought home to them, should help considerably.

The Japanese people, of course, are not being threatened with national destruction, as a deliberate purpose of the Allies. Even if we desired to kill off millions of Japanese and thereby render the rest powerless, our people know that it would be a foolish policy in the long run. For our modern civilization is so interwoven among the civilized peoples that intelligent leaders know all nations would suffer from the destruction of any of them.

There must, however, be order in the world, with punishment for evil-doers when that is found necessary, whether individuals or nations. But it is difficult to make people of warring countries understand this.

Chinese Recovery

The Chinese now seem to be getting more definitely into the war, which they have had to delay for years because of superior Japanese forces and their own lack of fighting materials. This opportunity comes mainly from Japanese withdrawals, which have recently been very great. As the Chinese re-occupy the cities and towns made vacant, they are naturally heartened, even though it is not they themselves who have forced out the enemy. Today they merely take advantage of the opportunity. But from this easement they gather confidence and gain strength to do the big job which remains.

With an increasing flow of supplies and improved communications, the Chinese may be expected to play a far more honorable and useful role from now on. Every gain of this sort helps in the big push which is destined eventually to drive the invaders and despoilers entirely out of Chinese territory and restore China to honor and effectiveness. In this procedure America, as always, is glad to help its Chinese friends and allies.

Washington at a Glance

By JACK STINETT

By STERLING F. GREEN

(Jack Stinnett Is On Vacation)
WASHINGTON — Of all the European countries, the late enemy is likeliest to help us through our dire lumber shortage.

The Germans didn't deplete their lumber resources. They either were astoundingly sparing of their forests or, more probably, didn't have the manpower to cut them.

It is America's good fortune to have occupied the zone which is rated the best lumber area in Germany. The timber is softwood, desirable for construction.

The French got the storied Black Forest, which is the biggest single stand. The British got harwood.

Military authorities are speeding the mills into operation. They hope that the German supply will cut down the amount which must be shipped from America's dwindling lumber piles to house and rebuild war-ravaged western Europe.

Efforts to find out what Russia can contribute have met an unsatisfactory, if not frosty, response.

"So far Russia has merely declined to discuss the matter," says Philip J. Boyd, director of the War Production Board's lumber division, who headed a recent Soviet spokesman wanted to wait to "take better stock of the situation."

However, the Army is getting some lumber from Russia for its own use. Boyd says it is "not a large quantity."

The belief that German lumber was spared because of the Nazis' desperate manpower problem, more than any conservation policy, is supported by the mission's discovery that some forests in the Reich actually needed cutting for proper growth.

If Germany's transportation system were running properly, said Boyd, it probably would be unnecessary for this country to send any lumber to Europe the rest of this year, except for a few special types which

As it is perhaps two or three percent of America's lumber are not obtainable in Europe, production will have to cross the Atlantic in coming months. Officials had feared the amount would be greater.

"If we get those (European) mills to working quickly they will be able to supply a very large amount of the rehabilitation next year for all of Europe," Boyd says.

Britain and the low countries are pitifully short. Sweden has lumber, but is confronted by such a severe coal shortage that it may have to burn much of its forest output for fuel.

Last year the Swedes used 43 percent of their wood production for fuel, instead of seven percent as in a normal year. In this connection, it is worth noting that Germany has coal also; it is certain that Allied officials will seek to distribute it more equitably among all European countries than the Nazis would have done.

Finland has lumber too, but the chance of tapping that source is slim at the moment. Much of the output is expected to go to Russia as part of the reparations bill presented to the Finnish government by the Soviets.

Deafness Producing Disease

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M. D.

OTOSCLEROSIS is a disease of the ear which produces deafness. Just what causes it is still not known. In this disorder, there is an overgrowth of the bony tissue in the internal ear. There is slowly progressive deafness which comes on gradually. It is often associated with more or less ringing in the ears and head noises.

It usually starts in those about eighteen to twenty-five years of age and occurs about twice as often in women as in men. In women, the deafness frequently gets worse with each pregnancy. There is evidence that the disorder runs in families. In about one-half of the patients with this condition, there is a history of a relative with a similar disorder.

Ear Blocked

In the beginning, the deafness is due to blocking of the part of the ear known as the oval window, which is in the middle ear, so that sound waves are not properly carried through the ear. Later on, there may be some degeneration or wasting of the nerve of hearing. Thus, in persons who have had the condition for a long time the nerve deafness may be worse than that produced by the blocking of the sound waves.

Many types of treatment have been employed for otosclerosis, but up to the present, no form of medical treatment has been found which has any effect on slowing down the process of producing any benefits. However, in recent years, an operation has been devised to open the oval window or make a new window. The operation is not an easy one to carry out. It is tedious and usually takes from 2½ to 3½ hours, according to Doctor Kenneth M. Day of Pittsburgh. He says that the operation has produced brilliant results in restoring hearing to an increasingly large number of people suffering from otosclerosis.

Not Everyone Satisfied

However, not all persons with otosclerosis are suitable candidates for this operation because, if the disorder has been present long enough to produce degeneration of the nerve, the operation will do no good. The operation, then, is a good gamble but it is not devoid of risk.

Unless it can be expected that the operation will give good practical hearing it should not be carried out, but instead, a suitable type of hearing aid prescribed. The operation also should be restricted to persons between twenty and forty years of age. Bear in mind, also, that the operation is performed only for the type of deafness due to otosclerosis and not to deafness brought on by other causes.

Cheerfulness in human relations is like oil in steel bearings—it reduces friction. The man with a frowning face is usually met with a frown. A smile is met with a smile. Grumbling is a seed which bears fruit of its kind as surely as potatoes. The cheerful man lights up the whole region from about him wherever he goes. He reduces the frictions of life. His presence is medicinal. Things go easy with him and others who observe him; a cheerful man goes into a company and everybody catches his mood. His presence is better than medicine for the sick. He roots hard knots. If you have this wonderful gift of cheerfulness do not bottle it up. Use it for what it is worth.

SYNOPSIS

Eleonore Lawrence, Air Raid Defense worker in Sweetburg, a town humming with war industry and rumors of saboteurs — has a secret assignment from the Counter Intelligence Corps which explained that one of its agents, planted in a group of aliens nearby, was having difficulty getting his reports to C.I.C. headquarters. The coded messages were to be left in discarded cigarette packets near the Lawrence home. Eleonore agreed to retrieve and mail them to a certain address. The Lawrence household consists of "Grandma" Lawrence; Sukey, Eleonore's small sister; and Mamie, maid of all work. Eleonore's brothers, Arthur and Eben, are in the Navy and Coast Guard respectively. Eleonore was the recipient of several spy expose books, and secretly hoped the anonymous sender might be William Steuben, who had visited the Lawrences months ago, but from whom she had heard nothing since. The adjoining Wolfe estate has been leased by B. Stead Jones of New York, and Eleonore noticed an attractive blonde on the grounds as she and Roof, her police dog, returned from their daily search. At home she found the distinguished looking Jones visiting Grandma. He explained that his wife is an invalid and that he is interested in "Hunting Fifth Columnists". His offer for rental of the Lawrence house is turned down. Jones warned, Eleonore against walking along the lonely mountain road "because of the rough crowds employed at the rubber factory nearby." A week later, Roof disappeared. ... Unknown to Eleonore, Bill Steuben is a C. I. C. agent. After successfully posing as a Nazi sympathizer in New York, he was sent to the school of sabotage now being conducted at the Jones' mansion by the mysterious Carlotta. Bill recalls his first meeting with the Nazi agent, Baalath Jones, who disclosed that Carlotta, "a very demon of a woman," was seeking a more secluded locale for her "Way of Learning." Bill suggested the Wolfe estate.

CHAPTER NINE

G-2 hadn't known much about the Tower of Learning; neither had the Federal Bureau. Steuben's U.S. Intelligence chiefs were exultant over the chance to "plant" him there, and they had had Baalath Jones followed when he made the deal for the mansion in the Berkshires.

On his trip from New York, a colored lad sat beside Bill the distance between two stations. Later, in the washroom, Bill read the paper which the boy had pressed into his hand. The places where he was to drop the reports were carefully indicated. One detail of the instructions made him grin and alter nately hot and clammy: A girl who lived nearby had consented to be the link between him and G-2.

It could be only one girl—Eleonore Lawrence! He wished that he hadn't told Osborne of his friendship with the Lawrences. G-2 was insistent that no love interest divide the purpose of their man, and he had given that pledge. He recalled having sent Eleonore a few books, hoping that by some clairvoyance she would guess who the giver was. But letters were beyond him. His feelings would leak through.

Baalath Jones, bubbling with elation, had met him at the station below Sweetburg that rainy Saturday night and said the place Bill had suggested was "perfect for our purposes."

The dimly lighted hall was empty. They went upstairs. A fire burned in the grate of his bedroom. The furniture was heavy walnut and thick maroon draperies were swathed across the windows. "You'll

(What were the key spots? Al bany, thirty miles away? Or the big war plant at Sweetburg turning out vital electrical gear?)

"And there's a house near here, around the curve, hidden by the trees, which will be able to rent."

"You can rent it?" Bill had made his voice listless.
"So the real estate agent said. Everything's fixed up with her and the bank. I showed the right papers, made the right answers. We are Mr. and Mrs. B. Stead Jones, top-drawer family, and all that."

Steuben grasped some ramifications.

Baalath closed the curtains. "Mustn't show any light," he told Bill Steuben.

have to like this room, old man, for Carlotta believes in secrecy. No one is let out. No one sees other students. You're not a name but a number from now on—Number 7. It's on the outside of your door."

"Okay," Bill replied as he hung his overcoat in the closet. "A notable number. The Fuehrer has it in The Party ever since the Munich beer hall days."

"Quite right! Well your meals are served here; your instructor comes here for your lessons," said Baalath. "What do I do for exercise?"

"Each one is taken out after dark for a brisk walk."

Bill's relief was great. For a moment it had looked as if his plan to get the reports to G-2 was stymied. He asked lightly, "So I'm to see only my instructor, Carlotta?"

"See her, you asked? Not for a while. She lets others do the probational teaching. You may never see her if Herr Friedrich reports that you are slow on the uptake. So, study hard, and get promoted."

"I'm cozy enough here, fireplace, bath... The meals are good I suppose?"

"You won't complain. She's a woman for detail, I told you."

Baalath walked over and pulled the curtains closer together. "Mustn't show any light. Splendid for us, this isolated place off the beaten track. Near some key spots."

tions of this Nazi spy school within a few days.

Herr Friedrich, humorless and grim, was a Prussian disciplinarian, and when his pupil stumbled in identifying harbors, fortifications, types of war vessels, submarines, airplanes, tanks, artillery or other weapons of warfare, his reproofs were caustic.

New photographs of recent fortifications in the Canal Zone, the east coast, the west coast, were brought in almost daily to supplement those on hand. A gigantic network of treachery was spread before him that chilled his blood. It had grown unchecked so long that the task of extirpation seemed almost impossible.

Directing this part of the sinister mine, with secret tunnels leading to nests of other terms, was Carlotta, the "demon of a woman." Her unseen presence pervaded an efficient and evil organization. The Tower of Learning, they called her spy school. The Temple of Black Magic, a better name! A poisonous mist was in the air he breathed!

Suddenly a muffled revolver shot shattered the silence and his grim thoughts. Then another.

Steuben stiffened. Some poor devil who hadn't made the right answers?

Careful, something told him, or you'll be liquidated, too.

Ohio's Fingerprint File Second Best

By DAMARIS HAAS

LONDON, July 31—(AP)—Only the FBI fingerprint file at Washington tops the 1,139,807 prints on file at Ohio's Bureau of Criminal Investigation at London Prison Farm.

L. A. Hollingsworth, acting superintendent of the bureau, said in an interview that of the total number, 1,064,777 are fingerprints of persons with criminal records, and 75,030 are prints of civilians, most of whom are war plant workers and U. S. government employees.

The necessity of fingerprinting civilian workers since the war started has increased the number of civilian prints on file, Hollingsworth explained. The state bureau receives and checks an average of 300 prints a day. The state investigation bureau daily receives from the FBI a report of every arrest made of anyone born in Ohio or who ever resided in the state.

Fingerprints of industrial and government workers who were former Ohioans are received from industries and government agencies throughout the nation.

The Ohio bureau is one of the first state bureaus in the nation. It was created under Ohio law August 1, 1923 to establish a central investigation bureau to coordinate the work of local law enforcement agencies.

Under Ohio law local police officials and county sheriffs are required to send to the state bureau the fingerprints of all persons arrested for other than minor traffic violations.

All inmates of state institutes except the Boys' Industrial School and the Girls' Industrial School are fingerprinted and their records filed at the state bureau.

In 1944, the bureau received 40,276 fingerprints from police sources, and 57,852 prints from industry and government agencies.

The number of police prints received by the bureau is increasing, Hollingsworth reported, predicting "crime will increase after the war. It is now." Experts identify fingerprints by the loops, whorls and arches of the ridges of skin tissue, Hollingsworth explained. Prints are enlarged 20 times for study.

The Ohio bureau has aided, through identification by fingerprints, in solving criminal cases in many parts of the world. "Quite a few Americans in South America get into trouble, and the local police check back with us," Hollingsworth said.

Before fingerprinting became general, criminals were identified by Bertillon measurements identifying criminals by height, weight, cheek width, length of ears, and other physical characteristics. The state bureau has a Bertillon file of approximately 30,000 cards, some dating back to 1879.

The bureau also maintains an index file of approximately 1,311,283 cards, showing names, aliases, fingerprint classifications, and descriptions of criminals together with dates of arrests and previous convictions.

Photographic files at the bureau contain 53,055 negatives of persons who have entered the three state penal institutions. Other bureau records include a wanted and missing persons file, a stolen gun file of about 10,000 records, and a single fingerprint file containing the prints only of subjects known to have committed major crimes.

Fred Dengler, the bureau's ballistics expert, has aided in solving many crimes by identification of bullets.

"Every make of gun has a certain twist," Hollingsworth asserted. "All we need is the lethal bullet and a test bullet from the gun."

The bureau's special-type camera can reveal whether a window was broken on the inside or from the outside by the way the glass is bent.

Hollingsworth said the bureau's chief needs are a lie detector and a chemist to increase the bureau's efficiency.

The bureau also holds classes to teach local police officers from all parts of the state how to identify fingerprints.

Miss Mary Carolyn Rhoades Fetes Mrs. John Rhoades at Miscellaneous Shower

Flower Bedecked Home Makes Perfect Setting For Pleasurable Affair Which Honored the Socially Prominent Young Bride

Mrs. John E. Rhoades, who left Tuesday for Lincoln, Nebraska, to join her husband, Flight Officer Rhoades, who is stationed at the army air field was again feted at a dessert bridge and miscellaneous shower by Miss Mary Carolyn Rhoades at the home of her mother, Mrs. Mary Emma Rhoades on North North Street, Monday evening.

Mrs. Rhoades received with Miss Rhoades wearing a modish black and pink checked frock while Miss Rhoades chose a chartreuse frock made along becoming lines. The two personable young women received amid a bower of gorgeous flowers, and the flowers along with the other artistic decorations used by the hostess combined to make the setting a very lovely one.

Seated at three small tables, the group of attractively dressed young women enjoyed a dainty dessert course which was so hospitably served by Miss Rhoades, her mother, and her aunt, Mrs. Herbert E. Wilson. Informal chatting during the hour at the tables was prolonged by the congenial group of guests who welcomed this final opportunity to fete the popular Mrs. Rhoades, a recent bride.

During the remainder of the evening, two tables of bridge were at play along with one hearts table. High score awards were presented to Miss Dorothy McCoy and to Miss Carol McCoy in the bridge game while Mrs. James Boardman was the hearts prize winner.

Centering the dining table was a beautiful crystal water-garden of snapdragons and other cut flowers and greenery. Here was arranged a galaxy of beautifully wrapped packages, for which Mrs. Rhoades graciously expressed her sincere appreciation.

Those invited to the most pleasurable affair included Miss Betty Lucas, Miss Dorothy McCoy, Miss Carol McCoy, Mrs. Beryl Ellis, Mrs. James Boardman, Miss Jane Fults, Mrs. Billie Wilson, Mrs. Phillip Bishop, Miss Doris Jefferson, Mrs. Charles McCoy, Miss Jane Landrum, Miss Laura Schadel, Miss Jean Everhart, Mrs. L. E. Rhoades, Mrs. Willard F. Wilson, Mrs. Mary Emma Rhoades, Mrs. Herbert E. Wilson, Miss Rhoades and her honoree, Mrs. Rhoades.

Reds Beat Cardinals, 5 to 4, As Gossips Talk of Changes

By JACK HAND

By the Associated Press

Bob Coleman of the Boston Braves is the second big league manager to lose in the spongy under the wartime strain of watching indifferent work by inadequate help and the end is not in sight.

Evansville Bob dropped the Braves' job in the lap of coach Del Bixsonette yesterday, following fat Freddy Fitzsimmons, late of the Phillies, into the clubhouse reserved for the "I used to be a manager" group.

Joe McCarthy of the New York Yankees has made reservations in the same rooming house but isn't sure yet. Marjoe Joe offered to quit but was coaxed back by Larry MacPhail to think it over. He's still thinking it over and last night's wife said he "planned to rejoin the team when he's well again."

Pittsburgh has been giving Frankie Frisch a jumping case of the heebie-jeebies, prompting President Ben Wagner to make a hurried trip to Boston when the Pirates were flopping toward a permanent seat in the second division.

Cincinnati attendance has been down and the club unimpressive, hardly an indictment of Deacon Bill McKeechne who has been doing wonders with a patchwork crew. But here again the scuttlebutt reports another managerial change brewing.

Even calm, placid even-tempered Mel Ott of the New York Giants became so upset as to plaster a $500 fine on his ace pitcher, Bill Voelke, in the heat of a losing game. He gave him back the money later but it just goes to show, how upset a manager can become.

Oddly enough, there have been no open feuds blazing in the Cleveland wigwam where Lou Boudreau, the youthful skipper, usually is engaged in several of those "I'll never play for you again" sessions.

In yesterday's only scheduled major league game, Cincinnati downed St. Louis, 5-4, knocking the world champions out of second place. Ed Heusser scattered 11 blows for his seventh decision at Ken Burkhardt's expense with the help of a double and triple by Eddie Miller.

19th Hole At Country Club

Dr. I. Humphrey, 1942 handicap champion was defeated by T. E. Arnold—3-2.

H. E. Gandert defeated Walter Rettig, 2 up on 36 holes in handicap tournament.

The young men out playing with the four young ladies the other day were Don Denton and Joe Cullen.

Bob Helfrich out playing for the first time.

The hottest foursome at the Club Sunday afternoon was "Babe" Maddux, Clovis Graves, Bob Helfrich and C. R. VanZant. The first golfers out every Sunday morning are Bill Cliff, Dr. Francis Haines, Ora Middleton and Clarence Cooper.

Mrs. Ed Suntheimer who has been promising the pro for the last four years that she was coming out to play golf finally showed up this week and played.

It seems as though every time Don Denton plays he gets a birdie on No. 8 hole.

W. E. Shobe had his best ever score shot a 40, while playing with Mrs. Shobe and H. O. Noland.

Mrs. Sam Parrett is playing quite a bit of golf this year.

Glen Woodmansee defeated Walter Jones in the handicap tournament.

Vacationing in Canada are Forest Ellis and L. W. Turner.

Joe Cullen had the pro cut his clubs down to proper size.

Juanita Cannon had her first par on No. 8 hole.

Howard "Dink" Dellinger had a birthday Sunday (his age is a secret). That was the reason he was absent on the fairways at the club. Dink would like to use his age as his score everytime.

The pro is asking all golfers to turn their old balls in because August 15 is the deadline to have balls reprocessed. This is the only way to make sure we will have balls to play with.

Bob Helfrich shot a 59 the first time out. The pro wonders who was keeping score.

The most regular husband and wife golfers are Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Shobe, Mr. and Mrs. George Seavers, Mr. and Mrs. Ott Riegel and Mr. and Mrs. Bob McDonald.

The annual club championship tournament will start the week of August 15. There will be no handicaps.

Ronald Cornwell holds the title at the present time.

After being off all summer Bill McLean is getting ready to take on the boys. Take notice Cunningham.

The golfer who has two sets of golf clubs is O. W. Landrum. If one set doesn't work he can change over to the other. Very fortunate nowadays.

Going through some of the old clubs the pro noticed one of Bruce Devin's broken clubs. Devin hit an iron shot as far as anyone who ever played at the club.

The little boy around the pro-shop last week was the pro's nephew Johnny Overmeyer.

BATTLE OF GREENBACKS IS ON IN PRO FOOTBALL RANKS TO GAIN CLEVELAND SUPREMACY

CLEVELAND, July 31.—(AP)—A battle of "greenbacks" has grabbed the football spotlight in the Forest City.

The score of gridiron stars signed recently by two Cleveland pro teams stands even at nine and nine as millionaire owners prepare for a showdown in the fight for local football supremacy.

Emery of taxicab magnate, Arthur (Mickey) McBride into the pro picture with his Cleveland Panthers of the newly-formed All-America Conference has prodded Capt. D. an Reeves of the Army Air Forces, owner of the National League Rams, to unprecedented recruiting activity.

Sheidlerites Win Easily From Legion

It was more like a track meet with the Sheidler Insurance boys romping around the diamond as they would around a race track, but when it was all over a 24 to 4 victory for the Sheidlerites over the American Legion team was written into the records of the Twilight Football League.

Although the Sheidler crew collected 16 solid hits which they converted into more than enough runs to win, it was the errors by the Legionnaires that turned the game into a debacle.

The Legionnaires got 9 hits which they combined with a trio of Sheidler misplays for 4 runs. Not since the loop was formed early last spring has there been such a heater-skelter performance. There was no accounting for it. The Legion, however, had an in-and-out team that is more unpredictable than the weather.

Korn's Juniors Win

Leonard Korn's Juniors edged out the Methodists in a free-hitting and free scoring affair in which the final score was 16 to 15 after one extra inning of play.

While the preliminary had just about everything in the way of softball, interest of the crowd was kept at fever heat by the see-saw trend and keen competition. The Korn crew failed to score in only two frames and the Methodists missed in only three.
